

Food for Thought: Foraging Toys Teach and Tantalize

Drs. Foster & Smith Educational Staff

Food for Thought: Foraging Toys

Each day your bird does or says something new and amazing. To keep your bird on the path to learning, you must provide her with intellectual stimulation and intelligent play that exercise her body and mind.

Foraging toys offer an ideal outlet for the physical exercise and mental stimulation involved in intelligent play. Available in sizes to suit birds from canaries to cockatoos, foraging toys provide perplexing puzzles and the opportunity to retrieve nutritious treats. And because your bird will stay entertained and occupied for hours, treat toys - whether replaceable or refillable - are perfect playthings when you're away from home.

Replaceable foraging toys, such as Treat Piñatas and Kabob Toys offer built-in treats like nuts and dried fruits and are designed to be eaten and replaced. Refillable foraging toys like the Treat Cage with Toys and Buffet Ball are usually made from plastic or steel, and reward your bird again and again as you refill with a treat. Challenging puzzle toys combined with tantalizing treats help make playtime an engaging, educational experience for your bird.

We Recommend

Rings of Fortune Bird Foraging Toy

challenges your bird to solve the puzzle before retrieving her treat.

Generation II Foraging Wheel

keeps birds mentally and physically active when you can't be there.

Nutty Log

has tasty peanuts embedded in this challenging bird treat.

Treat Cage

turns playtime into "food for thought" by slipping these

Crazy Cubes Treat Drawers

challenges your pet bird

Treat Piñata

provides hours of playful pecking fun.

various toys inside the puzzle
cage for him to free.

to solve the puzzle for
food rewards.